Dear Mukta,

We had discussed the possibility of conducting an online orientation for my first year tourism students.

I have a big slot every Thursday 3.45 - 5.15 pm.

I am looking at either 9th December or 16 December 2021 to conduct this event- would any of these work for you? Please let me know.

Contents of the orientation.

I would like you to show students some of the books and the shelves where tourism books are kept. (I do not know if they are aware of the online catalogue etc. you may cover that in the introduction)

Please also tell them about any subscriptions to digital newspapers / any other service that the library is offering during the pandemic.

Please also orient them to any source provided by UGC for online books like the National Digital Library of India, <https://ndi.ilkgp.ac.in/>

You can perhaps introduce them to 1/2 popular digital libraries like the NYPL <https://digitalcollections.nypl.org/> (though these are not specific to tourism)

I have also enlisted some of the websites that you may use and introduce/ revise (I have introduced them to many, but they will like a refresher again)

Government websites
Indian Government

<https://tourism.gov.in/>
<https://www.incredibleindia.org/content/incredible-india-v2/en.html>

World Tourism Organisation
<https://www.unwto.org/news>

(The World Tourism Organisation (UNWTO) is a United Nations agency that exists to guide, support, inform and advance the global tourism industry. Naturally, their position of influence means they are looked at as an authoritative source of carefully vetted information that tour operators and travel agencies can rely on.)

WTO has an e-library, <https://www.e-unwto.org/foi/unwtofb>, and you can show them how to explore this.

Magazines/ websites for learning about the tourism industry as well as important tourism destinations in India and abroad.

We subscribe to many physical copies of these magazines- please show these magazines (physical copies) to the students during the talk

<https://mail.google.com/mail/u/0/?ik=18cbb5a8ab&view=pt&search=all&permthid=thread-a%3A-291818122335257234&siml=msg-a%3A-290...> 1/3

Gmail - Re: request to conduct an online library orientation for my First Year Tourism students

<https://www.bbc.com/travel>

<https://www.fodorss.com/>----- this is the Fodor's Guides and we have many of these in the reference section- you could also show the physical copies

<https://www.lonelyplanet.com/india>----- many guides available

Conde Nast Traveler
<https://www.cntraveler.in/>

Outlook Traveller--- subscribed
<https://www.expresstravel.in/>

Express Travel World ---- subscribed
<https://www.expresstravel.in/>

and finally for picking up research:

Library of Congress's Tourism Research Guide

<https://guides.loc.gov/tourism-and-travel/introduction>

I am sure you will find many other interesting resources for my students.

Perhaps you can showcase some of the video resources that we have in the library too/ past photos of my events to encourage them ?

Please feel free to write to me for any insights/ discuss the session.

Looking forward to hearing from you,
Best wishes,
Namrata

Thank you madam for your response.

As you are aware, we have been conducting online classes only, and none of our UG students come to the college. In this unusual situation, I had requested the library to conduct an online orientation. This was mainly to introduce them to online resources, so that they could pick up some skills for online research.

I am not sure what you mean by library membership? Isn't it deducted from their college fees?

Regards,
Namrata

Report

An online workshop on accessing the University library resources was co-organized with the Bharatratna Maharshi Karve Knowledge Resource Centre(BMK-KRC), S.N.D.T. Women's University (SNDTWU) on 6 and 7 January 2022 for all the students of our college. The workshop lasted for 2 hours and colleagues from the BMK-KRC took questions from students throughout the sessions making the overall workshop interactive and lively. The programme was geared towards students of English medium on the first day and towards those of Marathi and Gujarati medium on the second day although students had the flexibility to attend as per their convenience on either day.

After a brief inaugural address by the Director, BMK-KRC, Dr Subhash Chavan, the students were introduced to the online catalogue Webopac of the SNDTWU Churchgate campus and given a live demonstration of how they could find call numbers/ accession numbers of books, journals, dissertations and other A-V material in the library. In the second session devoted to journals/ e-journals and databases, the students learnt about how they could access academic journals both in the physical format as well as online format. They were also given a live demonstration of some of the available databases like JStor, ISID Database, ProQuest and e-ShoshSindhu which were available with the library. The third session was devoted to "Open Educational Resources" and the students learnt what open resources exactly meant. They learnt about doaj.org, doab.org, oercommons.org, Google Books and Internet Archive, as well as e-books (through the World e-book Library) which could be accessed virtually. A standalone session on the National Digital Library of India (<https://ndl.iitkgp.ac.in/>) and the wealth of resources available through the portal was conducted on the second day. The session concluded with the mention of DSpace Institutional Repository of the SNDTWU which housed university question papers and other relevant documents pertaining to the University's history and administration. The workshop was attended by 140 students on the first day and 70 students on the second". The sessions on both the days were recorded. The formal student feedback (collected through Google form) administered by the workshop coordinators, Dr Ganneri and Ms Lele, indicated that a large number of students would prefer to have similar workshops in the future although most preferred offline/ face to face delivery of activities. This initiative was specially designed to make students aware of and encourage them to use campus resources to scaffold their online learning experience.
